Black History Month

- Today's Black Brilliance information is about Mich  lle Jean, who was born in Haiti in 1957. In 1968 she immigrated to Canada with her parents and became fluent in five languages. She worked in women's shelters and taught Italian at a University. She became the first person of Caribbean descent to star on French television news in Canada. In 2005, she became the Governor General and Commander-in-Chief of Canada.

Varsity Boys Hockey

- The team played another great game on Tuesday in the LOSSAA quarter finals. Sinclair kept it close through the first two periods. Nearing the end of the second period, the boys found their fire. Heading into third period leading 5-3, the Rebels speed and excellent passing lead to 5 more goals. The final score was 10-4.

Library

- Our White Pine Wednesday is today at 12:00pm, with Author, Nicola Davison, who wrote the White Pine novel, Decoding Dot Grey. It's not too late to sign up for the author visit. Come to the library today at lunch to sign-up.
